Profile

A storyteller at heart and a programs manager by practice. I turn ideas into programs people show up for, conversations they remember and stories they actually engage with.

My work sits where storytelling meets strategy: I design and coordinate programs and communities, write the concept notes, scripts and run-of-show that hold them together, and host and moderate the room on the night. I work with brands, organizations, NGOs and communities, and I'm drawn to literature, mental-health awareness and community building.

Experience

Programs Manager & Script Writer

Literature & Coffee NG · Abuja PR Network

2026 – Present

- Write the concept notes and conversation scripts for a café-hopping conversation series for readers, creatives, students and young professionals, first gathering 17 July 2026.
- Script each three-hour event flow, from arrival and icebreakers through three conversation rounds to closing reflections, and host and moderate from the floor.
- Build the toolkit behind each edition: agendas, host opening remarks, discussion guides, debate prompts, table prompt cards and interactive polls.
- Work with the crew across production, creative direction, media and logistics; each edition moves to a new café or creative space, spotlighting a local business.

Editions include Where Stories Brew and Conversations Flow, Reality TV, Real Culture? BBNaija & Love Island and From Page to Playlist: Are Musicians the New Poets?
